DANIELSON

In view of the fact that engineers have estimated that it will cost $77,000 to build a new bridge across the Assawamuck river and only $2500 to put the present crumbling structure in suitable repair it is not likely that the annual town meeting next Monday will authorize the construction of a new structure.

This statement is based on comment heard Friday on the subject of a new bridge. The general opinion seems to be that Killbuck's bid already is too high and that the tax rate also is far above the figure where the average person would like to see it. A general re-evaluation of the town's property completed only a little more than a year ago added hundreds of thousands of dollars to the grand list, but instead of the reduction of taxes that was expected to follow this has not come about and the tax stands record high.

Such improvements as the much needed sewer bridge must wait until the town can better afford it, the taxpayers complain. Their main ambition, however, is to refrain from heavy new assessments and to cut down the cost of all improvements to the lowest possible minimum.

It is noted that some cuts in the estimates for some Departments will be made by the annual town meeting on Monday.

Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. E. E. Cunniff, at Danville, Va. Mrs. Cunniff was the hostess for the annual meeting of the Danville Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy. The chapter was organized in 1901 and has since that time been active in the promotion of the cause of the Confederate veterans and their families. The chapter is composed of women who were born in the Confederate States or who have been married to Confederate soldiers. The chapter is now composed of 100 members and is one of the largest in the South.

At her home at Pomfret Friday afternoon, funeral services for Mrs. Addie L. Burdick were conducted by Rev. J. Spencer Voorhees of the Congregational church at that place. Burial was in the cemetery. The bearers were Charles E. Burdick, Andrew Williams, Morris Littlefield and Watson. A. P. Wood was the funeral director. There were beautiful floral pieces.

Manager Thomas McDermott, of McDermott's Graves, announced Friday afternoon that he had wired a cancellation of the game scheduled to be played Sunday between the Braves and the Boston and the Boston Y. D. team at North Grovesendale.

The cancellation was made because of the fact that Manager McDermott received a letter Friday from the Y. D. team management informing him that General Clarence R. Edwards, commander of the Yankee Division overseas, would be unable to accompany the Y. D. team to North Grovesendale, the famous officer's physician having recommended that he must conserve his strength for the present in order that an independent might not lead to more serious illness.

During the week Manager McDermott has advertised that General Edwards would accompany the team to North Grovesendale, as he had been advised to do by the Y. D. team management, and hundreds had expressed their intention of going to North Grovesendale to see the game.

Manager McDermott was not willing to assume the responsibility for disappointing these hundreds of his patrons, to whom he had a cancellation of the game, as is announced in the advertising columns on the sport page this (Saturday) morning.

W. C. Darrow, for many years a resident of Dayville, is dead at his home in that place. Mr. Darrow died Thursday following a long illness. For years he was the station agent for the New Haven road at Dayville. Mr. Darrow was born in Waterford, Conn., a son of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Darrow, and would have been 73 years of age had he lived until Sunday next. He leaves his wife, a son, Paul, and two daughters, Cora and Estelle.

The fact that the E. H. Jacobs company, manufacturers of mill supplies, is to resume operations on full time next Monday morning is hailed as a sign of improvement in the textile field. This concern has been operating on a schedule of four days a week for nearly a year. About 50 are employed. The Jacobs company's product are sold in almost every section of the United States where mill supplies are used and also in foreign countries. Orders are coming to the firm in a more liberal way at this time than for nearly a year and this is taken as reflecting more activity in mill circles.

When the Congregational Ministers' union of Windham county meets at the Putnam church here Tuesday night, the addresses are to be delivered by Rev. A. H. Gates of Scotland, who will speak on "The Man in the Pew"; Rev. Fredrick Harrison of Woodstock, who will speak on "The Aquilifer"; and Rev. John R. Pratt of Brooklyn, who will make a report on the recent biennial meeting of the Congregational National Council in California.

Grading of the new state highway between Danielson and South Killingly has progressed steadily during the present week. Where gravel is being taken from a cut-off from the old route near the John Vasson farm two miles east of Danielson the dirt is being conveyed to a fill where the new route again leaves the present one and makes off through a low swampy field just below the Francis Eldridge place. The changes being made in the route will eliminate some of the curves of the old route and materially change the grade, the new road being at a considerably higher level than the old.

September, a month of very beautiful weather this year, passed off Friday with a thunderstorm, a sequel to an unusually warm period that has extended from the middle of the week.

Rev. Roy Edward Campbell Acheson will administer confirmation to a class at the Alban's church October 16.

About 40 prisoners are being held at the county jail in Brooklyn at the present time.

It appears from announcements made Friday that there is a possibility of the Connecticut company again establishing a through service to Webster in connection with the Worcester Consolidated road. There is a break in the service between North Grovesendale and Webster.

Today (Saturday) marks the beginning of the open season for hunting wild birds, and a number of local hunters have planned to go out for a day's sport. Other protected game birds may not be legally hunted until Saturday of next week, however.

James Henry and Clarence Richardson, arrested for complicity in the Plainfield freight car robbery, made their way through Danielson by a roundabout route, but were captured near Putnam, where they were being along the state highway.

Members of the Pentecostal church are to hold a service Sunday afternoon at the home of Edward Penhock, in Valley street.

Anthony Thomas, driver for the Windward trucking company who was seriously hurt when he was thrown off his truck on Hopkins hill in Plainfield during the summer, has so far recovered as to be able to leave the Day Kimball hospital. It was believed for several weeks that Mr. Thomas was badly injured that he could not recover.

Residents of towns all along the line of the local branch of the New Haven road find the new schedule very convenient in many ways and are anxious that it be revised so as to give the service in force last winter. Danielson loses one mail a day out of the present arrangement, to enumerate only one instance of how the new schedule works out.

Next year will witness an effort on the part of William H. Scotland, and other people as well as residents of Plainfield to have the state highway department authorize completing the line of state highway from Plainfield through Canterbury and Westminster to Scotland. Several miles of this route have been covered.

Superintendent H. H. Turner of Killingly's schools has called attention to the fact that the Dayville and Killingly Center schools are without an adequate supply of water.

Mrs. Sarah Woodie of Rutland, Mass., formerly of Danielson, has been spending a few days with Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Judson.

One unopposed divorce was granted and some minor matters disposed of at Friday morning's session of the superior court, Judge Marvin presiding. Another short calendar session for the transaction of civil business is to be held here next Friday morning, to which time the civil sessions were adjourned.

Friday morning jurors who will serve at the October term, when criminal cases are to be considered, were drawn and it was announced that prisoners held at Brooklyn jail or who are out under bonds will put to plea. The jury will be summoned in for Thursday of next week.

The jurors for the October term are as follows: Putnam, Hiram G. Clark, O. D. Farrow, Windham, Kingsley Brown, James R. Bait, Ashford, T. J. McQuade; Brooklyn, Ellsworth C. Robinson; Canterbury, William Rander; Plainfield, Charles E. Howe; Eastford, Charles W. Clark; Hopkinton, Irving Hammond; Killingly, Rev. Charles A. Dowse; John P. Barber, William T. Barber; Plainfield, Edward Hall, Henry Poulton; Pomfret, Thomas A. Manley; Ledyard, Scotland, Byron Wilcox; Sterling, Allen M. Sayles; Thompson, William M. Mayhew; Charles Kites, Arthur Chandler; Woodstock, Arnold Stone, Clarence H. Child.

The unopposed divorce heard Friday morning was one in which Grace L. Laine, formerly of Woodstock, was granted a decree from W. J. Bugbee, formerly of Woodstock and later of Rod Oak, Iowa. Bugbee, it was said in court, is now believed to be in South America. His wife charged him with having deserted her on October 1, 1917, ten days after their marriage at the home of her sister in Wickford, R. I., and since then they never lived together or in any way.

January 5, 1918, at Milbra, N. Y., a child, Maecel C., was born to Mrs. Bugbee and she has since cared for the infant at the home where they live in Woodstock.

Town Clerk Frank E. Barrett of Woodstock, uncle of Mrs. Bugbee and with whom she makes her home, testified in her behalf, as did Charles M. Darrin and Charles Tague, both of Woodstock. With the divorce allowed her.

When court comes in next Friday there will be another hearing in the case of Grace Tollofson of Brooklyn, N. Y., John Laine of Brooklyn, Conn. This case promises some interesting developments, inasmuch as the defendant did not appear in court when the case came up in this city Wednesday of this week. It was represented by an attorney, John G. Annala of Pittsburgh, Mass., who said that he understood that his client had left Brooklyn, Conn., and had gone to Brooklyn, N. Y., for the winter.

There have since been some interesting developments relative to Laine's whereabouts and those may be expected to come out during next Friday's hearing.

The case is one in which Miss Tollofson, a child six years of age, is seeking to have re-admitted in Connecticut a judgment for $735 obtained against Laine in the superior court in New York for injuries received when she was struck by an automobile owned by Laine, who is now part owner of a farm in Brooklyn, Conn., and an attachment has been placed on the property to protect Miss Tollofson's rights in this state.

It was remarked during Friday that no jury has been summoned in during the September term, though one was drawn. No jury cases have come up for trial, for the first time in a number of years.

State Officers Howard A. Elliott and Arthur W. Williams raided two places where it was reported quantities of indicants were to be found at Quinebaug in the town of Thompson and made a haul during the early hours of Thursday night.

At places operated by Peter Condon and Van Mitchell several dozen bottles of Jamaica ginger and unsound liquor were seized. Condon and Mitchell

They were turned over to railroad officers and taken to Central Village for a hearing, being bound over to await trial at next week's session of the superior court in this city.

The Windham House Association of Connecticut College had a well attended meeting at Miss Aubrey's school in Thompson, Thursday afternoon. President Benjamin T. Marshall gave an interesting talk on the spirit and ideals of the young college at New London. The institution opened its doors only seven years ago and already has alumnae numbering 135. There are many more applications for admission than can be accommodated and the crying need is for more dormitories. It is hoped that Windham House may be built at an early date to help meet this need.

Miss Louise C. Howe of Norwich, a trustee of the college, told of some of the things the students are doing to help raise money. She said that a cast of college girls would be available to give plays for the benefit of Windham House where the local com-were later arraigned before Justice Thomas Ryan of Thompson and each fined $100 and costs, the costs in each case being in excess of $50. In addition the men were given sentences of 30 days in jail, but execution of the sentences were suspended upon the agreement of Condon and Mitchell to stop violating the liquor laws.

Though at first seeing the men seemed like an outside chance, Captain J. H. Bulger and Officer William Jarvis are now very pleased that they took Clarence Robinson and James Henry, both colored, into custody, Thursday morning, on suspicion that they might be members of the gang of car thieves apprehended at Plainfield. Robinson and Henry proved to be the man wanted; though they told a very plausible story denying all knowledge of the Plainfield matter when first locked up here. It was not until evening that they finally admitted that they were involved in the theft of 200 rolls of cloth from a car in the Plainfield yards.

They were turned over to railroad officers and taken to Central Village for a hearing, being bound over to await trial at next week's session of the superior court in this city.

Refreshments were served. The meeting closed with a vote of thanks to Miss Marot for her generous hospitality.

According to a communication received by Mr. Corbett, secretary of the Windham County Y. M. C. A., the Hartford County Association has set a high standard toward which the other counties in the state will do well to strive. In Hartford county they now have twenty-four groups fully organized and carrying out a full program of activities. Nineteen of these groups are for boys, one for young men and four for industrial men. Also there are urgent demands for eight new boys' groups to be organized immediately. When one stops to consider that these groups have an average member of fifteen boys and young men one can realize what the Y. M. C. A. work may mean to the boys of a county.

The statement should challenge Windham County Association which is the youngest association in Connecticut being the last of the eight counties to be organized. Hartford county has been organized for three years and Windham county has been organized for less than three months. Most of the time for these three months has been spent by the purpose of the association to co-ordinate the secretary in making a survey of the county and becoming acquainted with its needs and possibilities along the line of work with boys. As a result of this preliminary study of the field it has been decided to proceed to the organization of branches of the county association in each of the following townships in the order named and as rapidly as consistent with thoroughness: Woodstock, Putnam, Thompson, Danielson, Eastford, Brooklyn, Plainfield, Pomfret, Sterling and others. The branch associations will consist of a local committee of from three to fifteen men as the case may be, who will have charge of all association work done within their respective towns, and one or more groups of boys or young men who will be fully organized clubs with officers, and committees and an adult leader who will lead and direct them in their activities. The purpose of these groups will be the finest possible development of their members in body, mind and spirit and the rendering of service both as individuals and as organized groups.

It is not the intention of the association to erect buildings nor to purchase expensive equipment. Nor is it
